Hi Bhoimus. I know we don't really know each other, however there can be no denying it that you deserve this barnstar. Even though you only joined three months ago, you've become a Welcomer and Trial NABer, you've made more than a thousand contributions, and are doing so many activities that give wikiHow the reputation it has.

From the start, it was clear you are a dedicated contributor, and dedication's a quality seen in all talented contributors on wikiHow. Keep up the great job you're doing! :D ~Sarah

The "I've Got It!" Award

I got it and passed it along.
Understanding the ins-and-outs of wikiHow is important in making valuable contributions.
This editor grasped a concept and passed it along to another.

And many thanks as well!

Please pass this award on to someone else who you think deserves it.

Dear Bhoimus,

I am awarding you this Barnstar because, throughout the time I've interacted with you, I've been continually inspired by your exceptional edits, thoughtful guidance, and willingness to help in so many situations. You consistently go above and beyond—whether you're patrolling, writing, boosting articles, or tackling admin tasks—and you do it all with such a positive and uplifting spirit.

Your encouragement and support have meant a great deal to me personally during my time here. I've seen firsthand how your kindness and approachability make wikiHow feel welcoming and supportive for everyone. You truly are a dedicated asset to this community, and I feel lucky to have crossed paths with you.

Thank you for all the help, advice, and friendship you've offered me as I've grown as a wikiHowian—it has made my experience here so much better. I'm genuinely grateful to have you as part of the team!

Thanks for your title change request on Play the Google Text Adventure Game, I've sorted that for you. And thank you for all the grammar fixes and welcoming you've been doing around the site — it's lovely to see coming through RCP :)
